YOUNG BURGLARS ROB FIVE STORES ON SUNDAY NIGHT

Leader is 'Gene Scott, Yellow Boy, Who Goes to Reform School.

Two White Boys Turned Over to Parents.

DIME NOVEL HEROES GUILTY.

Prompted by stories of heroes of dime novel fame, three boys, two white and one colored, ranging in ages from 12 to 14 years were caught breaking in the rear door of A. M. Levison & company's bottling works at 8 o'clock last night, the second visit to the store that day and the 14th adventure in robbing three other establishments and an Illinois Central box car on First street. H. Friedman, at the bottling works, found the place had been entered yesterday afternoon and laid in wait last night. The "still watch" was rewarded by the boys' second appearance there and they were held until policemen took charge of them.

Following the "banners" of Gene Scott, a little yellow negro who says he is 12 years old, and who was the ring leader of the "gang," Willie Futrell and John Wesley Carter joined in the game, to emulate deeds of Jesse James. Before they completed their plundering they had entered five places and stolen and defaced valuable property. Patrolmen Cross, Shradler, Shelton and Ogilvie nabbed them and the youthful outlaws confessed to their crimes. Warrants charging them with housebreaking were issued today and Scott will be sent to the state reformatory by County Judge Barkley to remain until he reaches 21 years of age. The two white boys will be taken in hand by their fathers.

Where they paid their first visit is not known by the police. Yesterday afternoon A. M. Levison's Second and Jefferson streets, was broken into and the young bandits ransacked the office and are believed to have taken bottles away. This was probably their first trip. The proprietor decided to wait for their return when the boys were caught. Sometime between Saturday night and this morning other places were visited by the trio. The commission house of Ex-nil & company, at 218 South Second street, was entered through the rear door and a lot of oranges and other fruits taken. The third victims were Richard and Rodney Davis at the Davis Sheet Iron Metal works, 129 South Third street. Smashing a window pane at the rear of the store, the boys scrambled through the section of the sash. They prized open the private desk of Rodney Davis, secretary of the Paducah Fair association, and scattered valuable papers and letters over the floor. Opening one of the drawers they found a $2 bill, $2 in silver, one-half dollar and dimes and pennies, making a total of $6 that was stolen. Going to the front of the building they prized open the desk of Richard Davis, but overlooked a dollar in small change that was in one of the drawers. Both desks were badly defaced. The robbers made their exit through the broken window, several feet above the ground, the lower sash being protected by heavy screening.

On South First street a railroad box car containing potatoes was broken open, but nothing taken. The boys confessed to breaking off the seal on the car.

The next victim was W. W. Sacra, the photographer, at his studio, 116 South Sixth street. The studio was turned topsy turvy and a small amount of damage done.

The boldness with which the young thieves operated is a puzzle to the police department. Gene Scott has been before the police several times in the past few months on charges of stealing beer bottles from bottling companies. The Carter lad was before the police a few days ago on a similar charge, but they were turned loose. Futrell is known to be a "bad egg."

The fathers of the two white boys will take care of them and they will be dealt with severely.

Old Offender.

Gene Scott, colored, has been before County Judge Barkley several times, but as he has refused to reform, he was ordered taken to the reform school until 21 years old. J. W. Barkley, county probation officer, will leave early in the morning with Scott for Lexington. An opportunity to reform will be given the Carter boy. He has been before the county judge and promised to quit going

Senate Committee Reports Elkins Interstate Commerce Court Bill Favorably--- Postal Bank in House

Committee Proposes Amendment to Railroad Merger Law, so as to Eliminate Absorption of Competitors.

Washington, March 7.—By a vote of 15 to 1, the house committee on interstate commerce affairs struck from the bill provisions relative to the control of railroads by competing lines. One of the provisions would have allowed railroads, which own over fifty per cent of the stock of a competing line to purchase the remainder of the stock and would have legalized all past purchases of stock.

Elkins Bill Reported. Defending and explaining the Elkins railroad bill, as reported by the senate committee on interstate commerce, a majority of the committee filed their report in the senate today. Nearly one-third of the report is devoted to the commerce court proposed in the bill. The defense is mainly directed to some of the charges made in the Guinness-Clapp minority report presented last week.

Postal Savings Bank. Washington, March 7.—The postal savings bank bill was received by the house today and promptly sent to several weeks' oblivion in the committee, while the administration railroad bill takes the center of the senate stage and the house drowns on with the appropriation bills to the accomplishment of political speeches made under the cloak of general debate.

Drury's discussions will probably be the order of business for the next few days, or until congress has warmed up to another of the administration policies.

Before the railroad bill, which creates a court of commerce, besides amending the interstate commerce laws in other ways, is taken up in earnest, it is likely that the agricultural appropriation bill will be put through the senate. This will not take long, however, and the consideration of another of the Taft policies soon will be in full swing.

Members of the house are beginning to analyze the amendments put on the postal savings bank bill Saturday in the last few hours of its consideration. The one that is causing the most comment is that of Senator Borah which will prevent postal funds from being invested in two per cent government bonds, while making all higher interest bearing securities available for such investment in time of war or other emergency.

The postal savings bank bill as passed by senate provides for:

Board of trustees of postal savings bank, secretary of the treasury, the postmaster-general and attorney-general.

Every postoffice that issues money orders and such others as the postmaster-general may designate will be savings banks.

Kansas City Scandal in High Life Opened

Kansas City, Mo., March 7.—The case against Jack Cudahy, charged with assaulting Jere S. Lillis, who was found in the Cudahy home Sunday morning in a badly mutilated condition, was continued in police court this until a week from tomorrow, to give time for further developments in the case. At St. Mary's hospital this morning it was reported that Lillis is resting well and undoubtedly will recover. Mrs. Cudahy's mother, in Omaha, says Cudahy has been insane often.

When Cudahy returned home he found Lillis sitting on a couch with his wife. He had often been jealous of Lillis' attention to his wife. Once he commanded Lillis to leave his house at a revolver point. He had laid a plot, and came prepared, a butcher knife in one hand and automobile lamp in the other. When he entered Mrs. Cudahy screamed and ran to the telephone and called the police.

Cuts said to have been inflicted with a knife, covered Lillis' face, legs and one arm. The cuts were made in criss-cross fashion. If he recovers he will be disgraced for life.

Before cutting Lillis, Cudahy is said to have bound Lillis with a rope.

with the negro, but each time the promise was violated. It is believed with the Scott boy in the school of reform that the officials will be able to manage the white lad.

LIGHTS OUT.

Chicago, March 7.—Five hundred Chicago women, led by Mrs. Emily Hill, president of the Cook County Women's "Drya," will march on mass to the county jail today and tell Sheriff Strassheim that "it is time for him to abolish the city's red light district." The women marched to the city hall and gave Mayor Buese their mind on the red light question recently, but did not get any satisfaction from him.

may open an account. Married women will control their own accounts.

An account may be started with one dollar.

Not more than $100 may be deposited in any one month.

No account shall exceed $500. Two per cent interest will be paid on deposits.

Banks with which the funds are deposited must pay the government at least 2.25 per cent interest.

In time of war or other emergency involving the credit of the government the president may invest the funds in government bonds bearing at least 2.25 per cent interest.

Railroads Win Point.

Washington, March 7.—Affirming the railroad's contentions, the supreme court held today that the Northern Pacific, Chicago and North-western, Union Pacific, and Oregon Short Line and other western railroads need not obey the order of the interstate commerce commission and establish joint through passenger rates westward.

His Home Burned.

Sharp, Ky., March 7. (Special.)—Returning from church to find his home in ashes was the experience of James Sallars last night. He and the members of his family attended a singing at a church last night and during their absence their house caught fire and was totally destroyed. The loss will amount to about $1,000.

County School Board

The county school board will hold the regular monthly meeting March 21. The board will convene at 9 o'clock. The taking of the county census will be discussed. The trustee of each sub-division is required to take the census of his school during the month of April, and turn it in. It is anticipated that the county will show an increase in the number of children of school age as many people have moved to the county last year.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Peters, who resides near Sharp, died last night of erysipelas. The funeral took place this morning with burial in the Oakland cemetery.

One of Cudahy's chauffeurs was present.

Cudahy married Miss Edna Cowin, a society belle of Omaha, December 28, 1899. On the day of the marriage Cudahy's father made him manager of his Kansas City packing interests. After a three months' honeymoon which included trips in special trains and occupancy of a palace in Italy, the pair returned to Kansas City and purchased a fine home.

Society readily received them. Cudahy for a time kept fine horses. Following an injury sustained while playing polo, he sold his stable and took up motoring.

The Cudahy's have five children. Lillis is a bachelor, 47 years old. He is manager of the Western Exchange Bank. Both men hold memberships in the leading clubs, where they were often seen together.

Well Known Evangelists.

The Rev. J. E. Brown and C. P. Curry, vocalists, began a revival at Hopkinsville yesterday. Last fall they conducted a Methodist revival in the city at the Auditorium rink.

STEP-SON SHOTS HIS STEP-FATHER AND KILLS HIM

Lloyd Cornwell Says William Smitson Was Cruel to His Sister.

Tragedy at Symsonia. Graves County, Sunday.

BOY SURRENDERS HIMSELF.

Symsonia, Ky., March 7. (Special.)—William Smitson, 45 years old, a prominent farmer, was shot and killed yesterday morning about 10 o'clock at his home by Lloyd Cornwell, his step-son, 19 years old. Cornwell disappeared from home immediately after the shooting, but returned in the afternoon and was taken into custody and taken to Mayfield, where he is being held on a charge of murder. Cornwell was shot through the left ear by Smitson just before he fired the fatal shot. Smitson lived 15 minutes.

It is said that Cornwell had fallen out with his step-father over Smitson's treatment of Mattie Cornwell, his sister. Cornwell is said to have warned Smitson and yesterday told him that if he didn't leave home he would be killed. Cornwell fired at Smitson with a revolver, the ball entering his breast just above the heart. Smitson fell and expired 15 minutes later. In the meantime Cornwell had made his escape, but returned in the afternoon to find officers waiting for him. He made no resistance and will be tried for murder.

Smitson was a prominent farmer and leaves a wife, two children living in Tennessee and several step-children. The funeral was conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Oak Level church. The burial was in the Clark's river cemetery. The Rev. Mr. Banks officiated.

Cornwell's injuries were dressed at Mayfield by Dr. J. H. McCreary. Cornwell is in jail awaiting the verdict of the coroner's jury. The examining trial will probably be held tomorrow.

Duel at Berea.

Berea, Ky., March 7. (Special.)—Sam Baker was killed and M. D. Bowling fatally wounded in a fight between Sam and Burnam Baker and Bowling. All are prominent.

CAIRO WILL JOIN BASEBALL LEAGUE

MERCHANTS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC AND ONLY REAL LEADER IS NEEDED.

Cairo fans are red hot for a baseball team, but so far it has been impossible to secure a man to take the leadership in organizing a team. It will be necessary to erect a new park but the merchants have agreed to make up the money and for this purpose a mass meeting has been called for Wednesday night. Kenzie Murray and Harry Kelley went to Cairo yesterday in the interest of the proposed league, and found that Cairo is ripe to support a league ball team, but a real leader is needed. However, it is assured Cairo will enter the league, as the fans say everything will be arranged at the mass meeting at which several Paducah fans will stir up enthusiasm.

AMERICAN BANKS FOR GUATAMALA

WILL DRIVE GERMANY OUT OF TRADE—A MORGAN COUPE

Guatemala City, March 7.—J. Pierpont Morgan has sprung a financial coup in Guatemala, the direct effect of which would be the driving out of German trade and the establishment of a Central bank, such as is proposed for the United States. Leading financiers here say today the bank will be located here with branches throughout Guatemala, Honduras and Salvador, which will place the financial system of the three republics entirely under American control. Hereafter the commerce of the three countries has been controlled by Germany.

Good Roads Bill Sent to Slumber Land in Recombitment in House ---Calloway County's Court House

Conn Linn's Bill Provides for Compulsory Sinking Fund to Lay by Sum for Construction of Co. Buildings.

Frankfort, Ky., March 7. (Special.)—In the house the good roads bill was called up and recommitted to the committee on internal improvements, which means they are buried. Senate Whitewash.

In the senate Senator Thomas reported on the Watkins' investigation, clearing all the members of charges made by Watkins concerning the county unit.

Watkins concurs in a report, exonerating the senators.

The senate passed a bill, providing for a vote on the constitutional amendment for a change in the tax system, as recommended by the state tax commission.

Senator Graham called on the adjutant general to furnish information whether troops were sent into Grayson and McCracken as claimed by the military committee. He claims that such was not the case.

The senate passed the Little bill, which gives annual pensions of $150 each to Confederate veterans or their widows in this state. This bill, which originated in the house, was passed without a dissenting voice.

The Carter bill, house bill No. 3, providing for the publication of all of the opinions of the court of appeals, was passed, 31 to 0. This is the same bill which passed the house recently.

The bill was drawn with the advice and consent of the members of the court, and the contract will be continued by the Frankfort News Printing company.

On motion of Senator Nat C. Cureton, of Louisville, discussion on the "probe" report of the committee on military affairs, which made a lengthy finding recently, will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Senator Cureton, as minority member of the committee, expects to have something interesting to say on that occasion.

$40,000 for Blind School. Senator Herman Nowcomb's bill appropriating $40,000 for greatly needed improvements and repairs at the Kentucky Blind Institute, in East Louisville, was passed by a vote of 29 to 2.

Next the senate passed the senate bill, which defines public drunkenness and fixes penalties for same. There was some opposition on account of the drastic provisions of the

RIOTS CONTINUE IN PHILADELPHIA

FEDERAL TROOPS READY TO GO TO PROTECT U. S. MINT.

Philadelphia, March 7.—The city was quiet at the early morning hours. Radical leaders boast 150,000 to 200,000 are out. The street car company officials say there are 20,000 only.

Two sticks of dynamite were exploded under a car today and 20 passengers were thrown in a panic. None was injured, though all the windows were smashed. Policemen, believing the dynamite was placed under the car by laborers standing in a nearby hotel, fired several shots and a pitched battle ensued, the workmen throwing bricks. Police reserves were summoned and dispersed the crowd, making two arrests.

U. S. Troops Ready. Washington, D. C., March 7.—As the condition in Philadelphia is a menace to the safety of the U. S. mint there, troops are now being held in readiness at Governor's Island and at Fort Dupont and can be rushed into the city within a few hours. Secretary of war Dickinson, acting on the request from the treasury department today directed General Franklin Bell, chief of the staff, to take all steps to prepare for this emergency. To General Leonard Wood, commanding the department of the east, has been detailed the work of selecting troops. No call has yet been issued, but the army regulars are prepared for instant action.

CHOIR TROUBLES CAUSE OF ATTACK ON DR. M. E. DODD

Charles Graham Administers Beating For Words Said About Wife.

Divorce Issue Involved in Controversy.

SUNDAY MORNING EPIISODE.

Louisville, Ky., March 7. (Special.)—At a meeting of the Baptist Ministers' association of Louisville this morning, a resolution was adopted, hearing approving of the stand taken by Dr. Dodd, of Paducah, excluding divorced women from his choir and also approving of the Christian spirit in which he received the attack of Mr. Graham.

As the result of the exercise of pastoral authority in the First Baptist church, the Rev. M. E. Dodd was attacked at Sixth and Jefferson streets yesterday morning by Charles Graham, the well known tobacco man, and besides being knocked down and receiving bruises on the face, Dr. Dodd sustained a bruise on his left side. The encounter took place just at Sunday School time. Dr. Dodd, who was taken by surprise and had books under his arm, offered no resistance. He returned home and removed such marks of the encounter as he could and filled his pupil in the morning. He collapsed afterward, however, and an examination revealed the

The trouble dates back to a revival a few weeks ago, when a choir was formed for the purpose of furnishing music for the meetings. Mrs. Charles Graham, whose first husband, from whom she secured a divorce, is living, volunteered to sing in the choir. Dr. Dodd declined to permit it.

Dr. Dodd's purpose was to protect his church from any possible accusation of sanctioning divorces, by permitting an divorced person to occupy so conspicuous a position. He had no intention, he said, to supersede civil authority with ecclesiastical, or to reflect on the particular case of Mrs. Graham; but in view of the position churches are taking generally in the effort to discourage promiscuous divorce, he realized that the public does not always discriminate, and in the discretion vested in him, he thought it advisable not to subject either the lady or the church to the criticism of people in the congregation. He made no public parade of his action in the matter; but Mr. Graham unfortunately construed Dr. Dodd's action into a reflection on his wife and his family, and so construing it, deemed it his duty to defend his family name and seek redress against the supposed defamer.

Mr. Graham's only comment on the occurrence was that Dr. Dodd had slandered his wife and family and be slandered it.

Dr. Dodd explained his motives to a reporter for The Evening Sun. He said that he gave no reason for his action at the time, but repeated notes, asking an explanation, and a call from a mutual friend finally induced him to explain his action. When the two men met at Sixth and Jefferson streets yesterday morning, Mr. Graham said: "Is this Dr. Dodd?"

When assured that it was, he replied: "You're just the man I am looking for."

He then charged Dr. Dodd with slandering his wife and family and struck the minister several times in the face. Dr. Dodd fell, and said he was struck after he was down. Several men from the garage across the street ran to the minister's assistance.

Mr. Graham surrendered to Magistrate Charles Emery and gave bond for his appearance next Thursday morning.

GERTRUDE NAGEL EAST RECOVERING FROM HURT.

Gertrude, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nagel, Third and Adams streets, is rapidly improving from painful injuries received late Saturday afternoon when she accidentally overturned a folding bed at her home. She was caught underneath and it is remarkable that she escaped with her life. One rib on the left side was fractured and her body badly bruised. She suffered a slight concussion of the brain at the time, but is out of danger today.

TOY REPUBLIC.

Monaco City, Monaco, March 7.—This, the smallest principality in the world, embracing only eight square miles and a population of 20,000, and whose other distinction is the Monte Carlo is within its borders, wants to be a constitutional republic. Prince Albert is selecting the commission today that will consider the demand of the people.

FORMER FIREMAN SUBS EX-OFFICER

JAMES LOE WANTED $1,000 FROM PATROLMAN TOBE OWEN AS DAMAGES.

A verdict for the defendants was returned this afternoon by the jury in the suit of James Loe against Tobe Owen and his surety, the National Surety company.

Evidence in the suit of James Loe, a former fireman, against Tobe Owen and the National Surety company for $1,000, as the result of personal injuries, was heard this morning in circuit court. Owen is a former patrolman, and while a member of the police force Loe alleged Owen used his mace when unnecessary.

The evidence was conflicting. Loe admitted he had been celebrating his birthday and had a good time, but said he had gone to his home when Patrolman Owen and Beadles went to his home. He said Patrolman Owen threw open the door, which knocked his sister down, and then bent him with his club. Loe said he was rendered unconscious by the blows and remained so for several hours. Owen denied using his club recklessly. He denied throwing the door open, but said he went to Loe's home to quiet him, and not for the purpose of arresting Loe. He swore that Loe struck him twice without provocation, and then in defense he used his club.

MEN OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH ENJOY BANQUET

A banquet in honor of the men of the church will be given by the ladies of the First Christian church tonight at 8 o'clock, in the primary, Sunday school room at the church. Plates have been arranged for 100 people and a profitable evening will be spent by those attending. One of the speakers to respond to toasts will be the Rev. Stephen Cory, of Cincinnati, who will talk on the subject of "Men and Missions." He is the corresponding secretary of the foreign mission board and is an eloquent speaker and a prominent church worker. Mr. James C. Uterback will be toastmaster. Dr. I. B. Howell will speak on the subject of "Elements of Success," and Attorney C. C. Graessham will tell of "The Bible School, the Basis of Christian Citizenship." Mr. George C. Wallace will speak on "Reducing the Church Debt."

BIG STEAMER BURNS UP ALONG MAINE SHORE

Portland, Me., March 7.—The Maine Steamship company's big passenger steamer, Manhattan, caught fire in the harbor here early today and is likely to be totally destroyed. One Spanish member of the crew is missing and is believed to have perished. All the passengers escaped.

Sewers in Metropolis

Metropolis, Ill., March 7. (Special.)—Bids will be opened this afternoon for the construction of a sewer system in the western part of the city. It will be the first public sewer and will enhance practically all of the best property in the city. Several Paducah contractors have submitted bids. The work will cost about $62,000.

THE GREATEST AIRSHIP MEET

IS BEING PLANNED BY LEADING MEN OF CHICAGO.

An Excellent Field Tract Two Miles Wide and Four Miles Long Selected.

WORLD'S GREATEST AVIATORS.

Chicago, March 7.—Plans for the most mammoth airship meet ever held in the history of aviation are practically complete in Chicago and only a few small problems remain for solution.

The Aero Club of Illinois is assuming management of the affair, which will mean the bringing together of every claimant to aerial honors in the world in one big field.

The meet is to be held, from present plans, in the district known as the Argo-Clearing tract, a field of 6,000 acres lying southwest from the center of Chicago and just outside the city limits.

On this tract will be built an immense aerodrome with shed capacity for the housing of the aeroplanes at one time. Surrounding this immense shed will be a dozen or more workshops fitted up with modern appliances for airship repairing. These are to be built for permanent use, as it is the intention of the club to hold weekly "matinee" for local aviators.

There are probably 50 local enthusiasts who have built airships entirely on paper. These enthusiasts are to be given every facility for perfecting their ideas and the workshops are to be open to them at all times. Every encouragement is to be given these budding mind-birds in the endeavor to make Chicago and Chicagoans known the world over as the home of the Aviator.

The Argo-Clearing tract is interesting in itself. Perfectly level, two miles wide and four miles long, there is not a shrub, a tree or a fence to interfere with airship starting. The meet is to be held during the week of July 4th, and is to be sponsored by the Sans Fourth association of Chicago.

News of Theatres

The engagement of Henry B. Harris' principal company in "The Traveling Salesman" will appear at the Kentucky theater, March 28. This play met with the most enthusiastic approval when it was first produced and has stood critical inspection in a manner that long since demonstrated its superiority and there has been no perceptible decrease in its popularity with the masses.

"Faust" never loses its attraction for theater-goers. If one may judge by the audiences that are greeting the performances, it is one of the stage classics, which, with the spectacular electrical features, makes it appeal strongly to all classes. The performance will be given here on Saturday, March 12, matinee and night at the Kentucky.

A novelty in dramatic form comes to the Kentucky theater March 11, "The House of a Thousand Candles." It has proven itself popular in its stage form.

The successful production of Chas. Jeffrey's comedy, "Cupid and the Dollar," by Tim Murphy, is quite in line with the record of Mr. Murphy, who has invariably selected good material and embellished it properly. Mr. Murphy will appear in "Cupid and the Dollar" at the Kentucky, Thursday evening, March 10. Dorothy Sherrod will appear prominently in the support.

At the Star Theater. One of the biggest feature acts that has ever hit Paducah is the Broadway Comedy Quartette, four young men, who can act as well as really sing. Mr. Desberger claims that this act, which will go on Monday afternoon at the Star is the highest price act that has ever had.

Otis L. Knight, the man that imitates Raymond Hitchcock and really sings, is said to possess a remarkable voice and is known all along the Middle West as the "Musical Comedy Kid."

The third vaudeville act is Holman and Cook, two juvenile artists, a boy and a girl, both have exceptionally good press notices from the different cities they have worked and should go well in their character song and dance act.

Two reels of motion pictures will also be given each day and an illustrated song, sung by Mr. Frank Long.

The price of admission will be 10 cents, children five cents. See The Sun for change of bill for the last three days of the week.

Anyway, a shiftless man can blame his wife for his failure to make good.

Wouldn't it be interesting if you could record all the funny conversations you overhear? No eavesdropping, of course, you understand—but just those you accidentally happen to stumble onto. CENSUS EXAM.

LARGE NUMBER OF APPLICANTS FOR ENUMERATORS.

Before Civil Service Commissioners at the Paducah Custom House.

A large class of male applicants representing the entire Jackson's purchase took the examination for appointments in the census department at Washington, D. C., Saturday at the custom house. The examination is in charge of Robert Moore and is being held in the federal court room.

Last fall when examinations were held here for the department, the applicants fell short, necessitating a supplementary examination Saturday.

The work to be required of the employees will be chiefly four classes, as follows: (1) Operation of card-punching and card-tabulating machines; (2) operation of typewriters, adding machines, etc.; (3) manuscript tabulation and other clerical work; (4) sub-clerical work, such as that of messengers, watchmen and laborers.

Sneezed at Her.

The court room was crowded. A wife was seeking divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty and abusive treatment. Guns, axes, rolling-pins, and stinging insectives seemed to have played a prominent part in the plaintiff's married life.

The husband was on the stand undergoing a grueling cross-examination.

The examining attorney said: "You have testified that your wife on one occasion threw cayenne pepper in your face. Now, sir, kindly tell us what you did on that occasion."

The witness hesitated and looked confused. Every one expected that he was about to confess to some shocking act of cruelty. But their hopes were shattered when he finally blurted out:

NO REASON FOR DOUBT.

A Statement of Facts Backed by a Strong Guarantee.

We guarantee immediate and positive relief to all sufferers from constipation. In every case where our remedy fails to do this we will supply it free. That's a frank statement of facts, and we want you to substantiate them at our risk.

Regular Orderlies are a gentle, effective, dependable and safe bowel regulator, strengthener and tonic, that are eaten like candy. They re-establish nature's functions in a quiet, easy way. They do not cause any inconvenience, griping or nausea. They are so pleasant to take, and work so easily, that they may be taken by any one at any time. They thoroughly tone up the whole system to healthy activity. They have a most beneficial action upon the liver.

Regular Orderlies are unsurpassable and ideal for the use of children, old folks and delicate persons. We cannot too highly recommend them to all sufferers from any form of constipation and its attendant evils. That's why we back our faith in them with our promise of money back if they do not give entire satisfaction. Two sizes: 12 tablets 10 cents and 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Regular Remedies in Paducah only at our store—The Rexall Store. W. B. McPherson, 425 Broadway.

IMPROVEMENT IS NOW THE TENDENCY

UNDERTONE OF MARKET IS STRONGER.

Conditions in Money Market Are Satisfactory and Outlook for Easy Rates.

MARKET OUTLOOK PROMISING.

New York, March 7. (Special.)—Another week of comparative quiet has passed, during which the tendencies on the Stock Exchange were visibly toward improvement. The undertone is stronger, and confidence is rising. At the same time there are enough uncertainties to prevent any premature upward movement. Labor troubles are creating a good deal of uneasiness in corporation circles, especially as the season is approaching when restlessness of this character is usually most active. In a number of cases concessions have been made to employees, but the violence shown in Philadelphia naturally arouses fears of possible disturbances elsewhere. It is not forgotten also that the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases are still before the supreme court, and that a decision may be anticipated at almost any time in the next few months. There is less fear of a drastic opinion than a few months ago, but these two cases are in any event important elements of uncertainty. Some further hesitation has been induced by sensational reports of damage to the winter wheat crop, but as these prove to have been much exaggerated they may be dismissed; it being too soon to form any reliable idea as to the condition of the winter wheat crop.

When it comes to considering the favorable features the balance appears to be largely on the side of the latter. The political skies are brightening, and unwelcome hostility to corporations is slowly abating. Business conditions are generally satisfactory, although there is some slight cessation of activity in certain lines, as is usual at this period of the year before the spring trade sets in. Dry goods buyers are especially conservative for the reason that distributors refuse to stock up freely at present high prices. Both cotton and woolen goods have shown a slight weakening in values, which it need hardly be said is unsatisfactory to manufacturers, especially in view of the present small marking between raw materials and finished product and the prospect of labor difficulties. In the iron trade, however, the better trade observed a week ago continues. The railroads are already appearing as more active buyers, and with the disappearance of winter construction work will revive and result in a better demand for all kinds of building materials. There is little doubt that the iron trade has turned the corner and will enjoy several months of continued activity.

Money. In the money market conditions are also satisfactory, and aside from the usual temporary stringency about the first of April the outlook is for continued easy rates until changed conditions assert themselves. The foreign money markets are also easy and in sound condition, all of which will powerfully tend to encourage worldwide recovery. Our foreign trade is still a source of some dissatisfaction because of large imports and small exports, and this situation is not likely to be corrected while the price level in the United States is as much above that abroad. Either foreign prices must rise to a closer parity with ours, or our prices must recede, which is hardly to be expected until an abundance takes the place of scarcity. This condition in our foreign trade suggests the probability of large gold exports during the coming spring, the only check to which will be foreign purchases of American securities. Fortunately, conditions are somewhat favorable in this respect. Money abroad, as just said, is easy notwithstanding this week's loss of gold to the bank of England, and the disposition toward American securities is distinctly more satisfactory since the January decline. There is a good demand of bonds both at home and abroad, and the improvement in this respect must be accepted as a better indication for stocks. About $25,000,000 new issues have been announced this week and more are pending, including a block of New York city bonds. The treasury situation is better than at one time anticipated. Customs receipts have been heavy and returns from the corporation tax are likely to exceed early estimates. This delays an issue of a government loan, though should the corporation tax be declared unconstitutional the treasury would be short the amount collected. Our railroads are enjoying a large traffic; the results for January proving much better than expected. If this condition of affairs continues it will tend to offset the disquiet caused by demands for higher wages. The withdrawal of the leading Rockefeller interests from their various activities is not likely to have any material effect upon the market. For some time past this enormous power has made itself felt only in the investment market. As a speculative fac-

As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports of the use of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker, and more glossy than it had been in a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. I've now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

for the Rockefeller fortune has been of small influence, except in times of panic to check disaster. Mr. Rockefeller and his son have been builders rather than speculators, and their more conservative withdrawal from active business means much less to the stock market than the retirement or the death of Mr. Harriman, who was essentially a man of speculative propensities.

The outlook for the market must be regarded as promising. There is still a considerable short interest, which is not likely to cover without a struggle, hence sharp fluctuations accompanied by sales to realize may be expected from time to time. But good stocks look cheap when compared with the present low rates of interest, and as spring approaches and business becomes more active confidence will rise still higher, reflecting itself in a further advance in prices. An advance is also likely to meet with approval in powerful banking circles, whose interests lie on the side of higher prices, especially in view of forthcoming security issues.

Daily Thought.

One true man is a false faith is better than a score of false men in any true faith.

"Several of our prominent citizens are talking of going to Frankfort in order to be present during the dying hours of the present legislature," says the Mayfield Messenger.

If they are looking for touching scenes, they are too late; the touching all took place early in the ses-

session.

THOMAS A LEADER.

Fate plays strange tricks with the best regulated political organizations. The state senator, who failed to align himself with the "regulars" at Frankfort was considered

outside party consideration, and Senator Thomas of Bourbon county, banker and lawyer, student and traveler, was one of these. Perfectly harmless, because he had no "pull"

with the organization, and lacking

influence, they thought, for the same reason, he has suddenly sprung into the limelight, by boldly opposing the revolutionary methods of the desperate lobby to railroad the Louisville rippers bill through the senate, and his words: "I am a Democrat; but I don't have to do it, Praise God, and I won't do it either," may well become the battle cry of those independent Democrats, whose manhood revolts at being subjected to the domination of the Louisville ring.

And we assure the gentlemen composing that ring, that there are thousands of independent voters in the state, who are looking for a leader and a battle cry.

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS PARTY

Now, that the senate has passed the postal savings bank bill, those who have said congress refuses to carry out the platform pledges and the administration program, are saying that congress rebuffs the president, because the senate amended

the postal savings bank law, as prepared by the attorney general and advocated by Senator Root. Thus,

we see certain people are bound to maintain friction between the administration and congress, if only in their imagination. There was no expectation that the urgent demands of the president for the fulfillment of platform pledges would take away from congressmen and senators their individual discretion and responsibility for the character, effect and efficiency of the laws.

Nevertheless, the innovation of in-roducing into congress bills prepared under the direction of the president in conformity with the national party platform, places the executive in a different attitude toward national policies from that,

though elected by districts, are chosen with reference to their support of certain men for the ministry and certain national measures. An election on specific issues in England definitely settles the adoption of policies just as soon as parliament can act.

In this country usually our brain-

less men cannot reach the presidency, if they enter politics, for the very good reason that they are elected from the nation at large,

and must please a vast army of political forces as well as appeal to all classes of people in all sections.

A personality that wins friendship and avoids enmity, seldom found in a forceful character, and one that appeals to popular sentiment is more useful for the presidency. The real leaders of the government have been the leaders of congress. The president has usually been a party leader, obeying the behest of the congressional leaders. Congressional elections do not reflect national sentiment, as do presidential elections.

Congressmen represent their districts and senators represent their states, and so long as most of them secure material benefits in the way of patronage and public improvements for their respective districts and states, and the kind of tariff arrangements their home industries demand, their seats have been secure. The leaders have been strategists, who held their places by trading. Hence, the patchwork character of legislation, and the arduous process by which national legislation has been impressed by national growth.

Grover Cleveland was an exception to the rule of presidential figures; but the long delayed political appetites of congressional constituents harried the majority in the two houses, and the president speedily found himself quarrelling with an undisciplined party organization.

It is due to the fact that presidents are chosen usually by these

party leaders, that vice-presidents,

coming into the executive chair

without feeling this dependent relation, don't get along well with the leaders of congress. Roosevelt and congress clashed continually during his term. In addition to insisting on adopting progressive policies, the president found it necessary to break the organization of the majority in congress, which is but a swap-

plag deal, anyway, benefitting private interests, and in nowise reflecting public sentiment. He was supported by the "insurgents" which is an organization of progressives from the west, actuated as much by a desire to free themselves from the domination of old leaders, as by a desire to forward the Roosevelt policies.

Against the wishes of the congressional coterie, President Roosevelt and his wing of the party succeeded in appointing W. H. Taft, who has eaten upon his duties possessed of the idea that he, and not the congressional leaders, is the head of the party. He cares nothing about whether the Canaan-Aldrich combine, or the "insurgents" control the house and senate organization, no

they pass laws in accordance with platform promises. In fact the insurgents like presidential interference no better than do the regulars; but Taft has

so far proven himself master of the situation. He has in his hands a certain amount of patronage, but he has used the moral consciousness and the attention of the people more than anything else in forcing congress to consider promises made at the last presidential election. Always good natured, but always firm,

tactful and discreet, the president retains public confidence in his integrity and good intentions. Measures are drawn by the attorney general in the president's direction, in order that they may be easily constructed, constitutional and effective, and free from any suspicion that might attach to bills drawn by the discredited congressional leaders. If the bills are not enacted, as drawn by the attorney general, congress is responsible and the publicity and the opportunity given for comparison

place the responsibility clearly where it belongs.

STATE PRESS.

Odoriferous, Eh?

That bill for the printing of all decisions of the court of appeals

paign cards, copy of which we publish in this issue and they are hard to scare up now, and he has freely quoted from them and from Senator

Lian's letters in his paper. Of course, if he is elected he will support all measures tending to the passage of the county unit bill; there will be no laying down by him. He is clean, honest and worthy of all confidence and has the courage of his convictions.—Livingston Banner.

A West Kentucky Democrat.

When the Democracy of Kentucky places Ben Johnson at its mast head nought but defeat can be the result.

Unless the state democracy can select a better man than the congressman above mentioned to make the race for governor against Ed O'Leary, whom the Republicans are certain to name to head their ticket, and with the unsavory record of the present legislature to contend with, appears to be worse than political suicide. If success comes to the party, leaders must yield to the necessity and demands of the people and announce

men who will fulfill every obligation to the people.—Murray Ledger.

Tobacco Sales

Tobacco movement opened again today and fair sales were conducted at the Pinters' Protective association warehouse and also Hohner's loose leaf action warehouse. The association disposed of 10 hogheads of lugs and 8 hogheads of short leaf tobacco, the former bringing from 6 to 7 1/2 cents and the latter 8 1/2 to 9 cents. Loose leaf sales amounted to 30,000 pounds and there were no rejections. The highest price was $10 and the lowest $4.60, making an average price of $8.57. There was a good break in the crop and buyers were plentiful. Among them were Messrs. Whalen and O'Brien, of Louisville.

Miss Burnham and Mr. Sanderford to 'Marry Tonight'

Announcement is made today by Mrs. H. K. Burnham of the approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Mae Burnham to Mr. James Archie Sanderford. The ceremony will take place this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride-elect, 423 South Ninth street. The announcement was not made until today as the wedding will be a quiet home affair, and will be witnessed by only the relatives and a few intimate friends. The Rev. G. T. Sullivan, pastor of the Broadway Methodist church, will officiate.

The wedding will be characterized by the charm of simplicity. The house will be decorated with southern smilax and ferns. Miss Burnham will wear an attractive gown of pink crepe de chine made in the princess style. The couple will be at home at 423 South Ninth street until next month, when they will go to North Carolina on a bridal trip.

Miss Burnham is the younger daughter of Mrs. H. K. Burnham, and is a popular young woman. She is an attractive girl of the blonde type, and has lived in Paducah all of her life. Mr. Sanderford came to Paducah from Raleigh, N. C., and is connected with the tailoring department of B. Welle & Sons. Since residing in Paducah he has made many friends. He is a member of a prominent southern family, and his father is one of the leading business men of Raleigh.

Mr. T's Spaghetti Feels Few People Know

It is safe to say that you have never tasted the true delicacy of perfectly fresh spaghetti—that is, unless you have eaten Faust Spaghetti. The flavor of spaghetti is as susceptible to outside influence as that of the most delicate butter. The flavor of spaghetti that is hung out of doors or poorly ventilated rooms is dry as far from what it should be as that of delicate butter that holds with strong cheese or fish. Even in the grocery store ordinary spaghetti absorbs all the straying odors in the place.

Faust Spaghetti is dried in dustless, airy, sunlit rooms, and packed in odor proof, moisture proof, dust proof packages, free from every taint.

act. This bill was introduced by J. T. Prichard, the sturdy old farmer from Boyd county, who is an uncompromising foe of John Barleycorn. It passed 21 to 7.

Those voting against the bill were Senators Bosworth, Burnam, Chapman, Dowling, Gus Brown, E. M. Taylor and G. A. Taylor.

Senator Wyatt's bill fixing bonds of public officers at a definite penal sum, was passed 25 to 1.

Senator Coan Linn's bill, requiring fiscal courts to provide a sinking fund for the erection of new courthouses where needed, was passed 25 to 1.

Gods Deserved Increase. Miss Nora Brown, Governor Wilson's stenographer, is one of the hardest working little women in Frankfort when Senator Thomas A. Conibe introduced a bill increasing her salary from $1,200 to $1,500 yearly, a bill was passed, 22 to 4.

L. W. Arnett's bill, allowing domestic life insurance companies to establish guaranty funds, was passed, 22 to 0.

Senator "Took" Hattie's bill, appropriating $20,400 for improvements at the Kentucky School for the Deaf, at Danville, was passed, 26 to 0.

For Uniform Accounting. The senate passed Senator W. V. Eaton's bill, providing for uniform accounting in all of the public offices of the commonwealth, by 27 to 0.

State Senator and Examiner M. H. Thateber has been a consistent advocate of the uniform accounting system, and he was much gratified to see the bill pass without opposition. It enlarges the powers of the state inspector. Clarence E. Woods, former mayor of Richmond, perhaps is entitled to the credit of being the original "booster" for uniform accounting. He has sent letters to every member of the legislature, advocating the passage of the Eaton-Shanks bills.

May Lose His Sight

As the result of getting strong lime water into his eyes, Forrest Chapel, a workman at the Paducah Brewery company, may lose the sight of his left eye. Saturday afternoon the employees were scrubbing and lime had been sprinkled on the floor. Water was thrown on it and the water splattered, striking Chapel in the eyes. He was given treatment immediately, but his right eye is injured badly. Chapel resides on North Twelfth street.

Mrs. Albert Lake

Mrs. William T. Anderson, of Arcadia, has received the sad news of the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Albert Lake, of Crystal Springs, Miss., on Friday night after a lingering illness. The funeral took place yesterday at Oxford, Miss., the former home of Mrs. Lake. She was a woman of fine Christian character, a devoted wife and mother. She leaves beside her husband two children and a wide circle of relatives. Mr. Lake formerly lived in Paducah and has many friends here who will learn with regret of his bereavement.

A verdict for the defendant was given by Magistrate C. W. Emery in the suit of T. J. Stahl against M. A. Clark, of Carlisle county, for damages as the result of a breach of contract. The suit was filed alleging Clark sold his tobacco to Stahl, and when a higher price was offered sold it to another dealer. The defense of Clark was that Stahl agreed to have his wagon unloaded by 10 o'clock one morning, and that it was not done, and he sold his tobacco to another dealer.

Tales For a Winter Evening

The Antiquers

From the "Old Home House"

By JOSEPH C. LINCOLN

Copyright, 1907, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

WHEN I got a crazy streak in us somewhere, I call it, only the streaks don't all break out in the same place, which is a mercy when you come to think of it.
I take summer boarders maybe, and you collect postage stamps. Oh, we're all looney, more or less, every one of us.
Speaking of collecting reminds me of the "Antiquers"—that's what Peter T. Brown called 'em. They put up at the Old Home House summer before last, and at a crank show they'd have died for the blue ribbon.

The dowager fetched port first. She hove alongside the Old Home one morning early in July, and she had
"my daughter" in tow. The usages entered on the shipping list was Mrs.
Milo Patrick Thompson and Miss Harbarn Millicent Thompson, but Peter T.
Brown had 'em re-entered as "the dowager" and "my daughter" almost as soon as they dropped anchor.
Thompson himself came poking up to the dock on the following Saturday night. Peter didn't christen him, except to chuck out something about Milo's being an "also ran."

The dowager was skipper of the Thompson craft, with "my daughter" (that's what her ma always called her as first mate and Milo as general resistant and purser.

"Wouldn't have done you good to see the feet run into the breakfast room of a morning, with the dowager leading under full sail. Barbara close up to her starboard quarter and Milo tal-ling out a couple of lengthy astern. The other boarders looked like quaking deers abreast of the Maribeech Yacht club. Oh, the Thompsons were everycup until the Smalls arrived on a Monday. Then 'twas a dead heat.

Mammy Small was built on the lines of old Lady Thompson, only more so,
and her daughter few pretty much as her penance as Barbara. Peter T. had 'em labeled the "dowager" and "Irene dear" in a jiffy. He didn't nickname Small any more'n he had Thompson and for the same reasons.
He and Cap'n Jonadab called Small "Eddie" behind his back 'cause of his wife's calling him as "Edwin."

In a week the four women was thicker than hasty pudding and had throne on the piazza, where they could patronize everybody short of the Creator and criticize the other boarders. Milo and Eddie got friendly, too, and found a better behind the barn

where they could smoke and swap sympathy.

'Twas fair weather for pretty near
a fortnight, and then she thickened up.
The special brand of crumbliness in Well-mouth that season was collecting "anti-quers," the same being husted chairs and invalid bureaus and sofa that your great-granddaddy got ashamed of
and sent to the alk bay a thousand year ago. Oh, yes, and dishes! If there was one thing that would drive a city woman to counting her fingers and cutting paper dolls 'twas a nicked blue plate with a Chinese picture on it.
One noon the dowager sails into the dining room and unfurls a brown paper bundle.

"I've captured a prize, my dear," says she to the duchess—"A veritable prize. Just look!"

And she dives under the brown paper hatches and resurrects a pink plate suffering from yaller jaundice, with the picture of a pink boy wearing a crown and a monkey jacket holding hands with a pink girl with pointed feet.

"Ain't it perfectly lovely?" says she, waving the outrage in front of the duchess. "A ghastly little nappy! And in such condition! If you knew how I've planned and contrived to get this treasure, I've schemes!—My my! My daughter says she's actually ashamed of me. Oh, no! I can't tell even you where I got it. All's fair in love and collecting, you know, and there are more gems where this came from."

She laughed, and "my daughter" laughed, and the duchess and "Irene dear" laughed, too, and said the plate was "no quainter" and all that, but you could fairly hear 'em turn green with jealousy.

And sure enough, in a couple of days
they bore down on the Thompsons, all sail set and colors flying. They had a pair of plates that for ugliness and price knocked the "glauvius little nappy" higher 'n the main truck. And the way they crowed and bragged about their "finds" wa'n't fit to put in the log. The dowager and "my daughter" left that dinner table trembling all over.

Well, you can see how a y'age would end that commenced that way.
The dowager and Barbara would scum the neighborhood and capture more prizes, and the duchess and her tribe would get busy and go 'em one better. There was a chill setting in round their piazza throne, and some of the sarcastic remarks that was casually hove out by the basom friends was pretty high sharp enough to shave with. As for Milo and Eddie, they sat snuggled together behind the barn, but the atmosphere on the quarterdeck was affecting the forecastle, and there wa'n't quite so many "old naps" and "dear boys" as there used to was.

A speer of weather developed sudden. One evening no and Cap'n Jon-adab and Peter T. was having a confab by the steps of the billiard room when Milo beats up from around the corner. He was smiling as a basket of chips.

"Hello!" hails Peter T. cordial
"You look as if you'd had money left you. Any one else remembered in the will?" he says.

"No," says Milo, laughing. "Nothing like that. But I have got hold of that antique davenport Mrs. T.'s been dying to capture."

One of the boarders at the hotel over to Harms had been out "antiquing" a week or so afore and had bagged a contraption which answered to the name of a "glauvius Sheraton davenport." The dowager heard of it, and ever since she'd wished she was lucky enough to have that kind of a man;
but, no, she had to depend on herself, and ectetory and so forth. Maybe you've heard sermons similar.

So we was glad for Milo and said so.
Likewise we wanted to know where he found the davenport.

"Why, up here in the woods," says Milo, "at the house of a queer old stiek, name of Rogers. I forget his front name—'twas longer 'n the davenport."

"Not Adoniram Rogers?" says Cap'n Jonadab, wondering.

"That's him," says Thompson.

Now, I knew Adoniram Rogers. His house was old enough, Lord knows, but that a feller with a nose for a bar

"Well," says Small, "what do you think of it?"

gain like his should have hung on to a salable piece of dinnage so long as this seemed most too tough to believe.
"Well, I want to know!" says a "Adoniram Rogers! Have you seen the davenport thing?"
"Sure, I've seen it!" says Milo. "I ain't much of a judge, but it's an old davenport, and it's got Sheraton lines, and I've got the refusal of it till tomorrow, when Mrs. T.'s going up to inspect."

"Told Small yet?" asked Peter T.

winking on the side to me and Jondab.

Milo looked scared. "Goodness, no!"
says he. "And don't you tell him neither. His wife's davenport hunting too."

His tops'ls hadn't much more 'n sunk in the offing afore who should walk out of the billiard room behind us but Eddie Small.

"Brown," says he to Peter T., "I want you to have a horse and buggy harnessed up for me right off. Mrs.
Small and I are going for a little drive to—over to Orham," he says.
"Twas a mean, black night for a drive as far as Orham, and Peter looked surprised. He started to say something, then swallowed it down and told Eddie he'd see to the harnessing.
When Small was out of sight, I says:
"You don't call it he heard what Milo was telling, do you, Peter?" says I.

Peter T. shook his head and winked,
first at Jonadab and then at me.
And the next day there was the duchess to pay because Eddie and the duchess had driven up to Rogers' the night afore and had bought the davenport, refusal and all, for $20 more 'n Milo offered for it.

'Twasn't nothing but a ratty old cripple of a sofa, with one leg carried away and most of the canvas in ribbons, but four men lugged it up the steps, and the careful way they hauled it made you think the Old Home House was a receiving tomb and they
was laying in the dear departed.

'Twas set down on the piazza, and then the friends had a chance to view the remains. The duchess and "Irene dear" gurgled and gushed and received congratulations. The dowager sailed over, tilted her nose up to the foretop, remarked "Humph!" through it and come about and stood at the other end of the porch. "My daughter" follows in her wake, observes
"Humph!" likewise and makes for blue water. Milo comes over and looks at Eddie.

"Well," says Small, "what do you think of it?"

"Never mind what I think of it," answers Thompson through his teeth.
"Shall I tell you what I think of you?"

And after that the cold around the throne was so fierce we had to move the families separate tables in the dining room so's the milk wouldn't freeze.

You see, the pitcher set right between 'em, and—Oh! I didn't expect you'd believe it.

The "antiquing" went on harder than ever. Every time the Thompsons launched a retic they'd bring it out on the veranda, on to dinner and get over it loud and pointed, while the Smalls would pipe all hands to unload servants, and the same they very when 'twas 'tother way about. 'Twas interesting and instructive to listen to and amused the populace on rainy days, so Peter T. said.

Adoniram Rogers had been mighty scarce round the Old Home since the davenport deal. But one morning he showed up unexpected. A boarder had sent up an antique somewhere in the shape of a dorel plate and was displaying it proud on the piazza.

Adoniram grunted. "Huh!" says he.
"Tain't nothing but a blue dish. I've got a whole closet full of them."

"What?" yells everybody, and then,
"Will you sell 'em?"

"Sell 'em," says Rogers, looking round surprised. "Why, I never see nothing I wouldn't sell if I got money enough for it."

Everybody wanted to get Adoniram one side and talk with him, and everybody else was determined they should not. Wherever he moved the "anti-quers" moved with him. Rogers got scared.

"Look here," says he, staring sort of wild like at the boarders. "What all you folks? Are you crazy?"

Well, he might have made a good deal worse guess than that. I don't know how 'twould have ended if Peter T. Brown, cool and snazzy as ever, hadn't come on deck just then and took command.

"See here, Rogers," he says; "let's understand this thing. Have you got a set of dishes like that?"

Adoniram looked at him. "Will I get jailed if I say yes?" he answers.

"Maybe you will if you don't," says Peter. "Now, then, ladies and gentlemen, this is something we're all interested in, and I think everybody ought to have a fair show. Rogers will bring those dishes down here tomorrow, and we'll put 'em on exhibition in the hotel parlor. Next day we'll have an auction and sell 'em to the highest cash bidder. And, provided there's no objection, I'll sacrifice my reputation and be auctioneer."

So 'twas agreed to have the auction.
Next day Adoniram heaves alongside with the dishes in a truck wagon, and they was strung out on the tables in the parlor. And such a paving over and gabbling you never he'd. The "antiquers" handled 'em and admired
'em and pluted to the three holes in the back of each dish, the same being proof of age, and got more covetous every minute. But the joy was illulated.

Milo and Eddie was the most worried of all, because each of 'em had been commissioned by their commanding officers not to let 'tother family win.

That auction was the biggest thing that ever happened at the Old Home.
We had it on the lawn out back of the billiard room, and folks came from Harms and Orham and the loud knows where. The sheds and barn was filled with carriages, and we served thirty-two extra dinners at a dollar a feed. The dishes was piled on a table, and Peter T. done his nu-cleonore preaching from a kind of pulpit made out of two cracker boxes and a tea chest.

But there wa'n't any real bidding except from the Smalls and Thompsons.
A few of the boarders and some of the
out of towners took a shy look at first,
but their bids was only ground bait.
Milo and Eddie, backed by the dowager and the duchess, done the real bidding.

The price went up and up. Peter T.

T. whooped and pounded and all but shed tears. If he'd been burying a competition hotel keeper he couldn't have hove more soul into his work.
'Twas, "Fifty! Do I hear sixty? Sixty do I hear? Fifty dollars! Think of it! Why, friends, this ain't a church pound party. Look at them dishes!
Look at 'em! Why, the plintheaters on those blue dorel birds in the corners are worth more 'n that for mattress stuffing. Do I hear sixty? Sixty I'm bid. Who says seventy?"

Milo said it, and Eddie was back at him afore he could shake the reefs out of the last syllable. She went up to a hundred, then to one hundred and thirty-two, and with every raise Adoniram Rogers' smile lengthened out.

And just then two things happened.
One was that a servant girl come running from the Old Home House to tell the duchess and "Irene dear" that some swell friends of theirs from the hotel at Harms had driven over to call and was waiting for 'em in the parlor. The female Smalls went in, though they wa'n't joyful over it.
They give Eddie his sailing orders afore they went too.

The other thing that happened was Bill Saltmarsh's arriving in port. Bill is an "antiquer" for revenue only. He runs an antique store over at Ostable, and the prices he charges are enough to convict him without hearing the evidence. I knew he'd come.

Saltmarsh nods to Peter T. and picks up one of the plates. He looks at it first rather casual, then more and more careful, turning it over and taking up another.

"Hold on a minute, Brown," says he.
"Are these the dishes you're selling?"

"Sure thing," comes back Peter.
"Think we're serving free lunch? No, sir! Those are the genuine articles. Mr.
Saltmarsh, and you're cheating the widows and orphans if you don't put in a bid quick. One thirty-two fifty.
I'm bid. N. W. Saltmarsh."

But Bill only laughed. Then he picks up another plate, looks at it and laughs again.

"Good day, Brown," says he. "Sorry I can't stop." And off he puts toward his horse and buggy.

Eddie Small was watching him.
Milo, being on the other side of the pulpit, hadn't noticed so particular.

"Who's that?" asks Eddie, suspicious.
"Does he know antiquers?"

I remarked that if Bill didn't then nobody did.

"Look here, Saltmarsh," says Small, catching Bill by the arm as he shoved through the crowd.

"What's the matter with those dishes
—anything?"

Bill turned and looked at him.
"Why, no," he says slow. "They're all very of their kind."

But Eddie wasn't satisfied. He turns to me. "Eg George!" he says. "What is it? Does he think they're fakes?"

"One hundred and thirty-three!" hollers Peter, fetching the tea chest a beet. "One thirty-four do I hear?
Make it one thirty-three fifty! Fifty cents do I hear? Come, come! This is highway robbery, gentlemen! Mr.
Small—where are you?"

But Eddie was talking to Saltmarsh.
In a minute back he comes, looking more worried than ever.

"One thirty-three!" bellers Peter.
"One thirty-three! Oh, how can I look my grandmother's picture in the face after this? One thirty-three—once!

One thirty-three—twice! Third and last call! One—thirty—"

Then Eddie begun to raise his hand, but 'twas too late.

"One thirty-three and sold to Mr.
Milo Thompson for $33!"

And just then come a shriek from

Around the corner comes Adoniram Rogers.

the piazza: the duchess and "Irene
dear" had come out of the parlor.

Well! Talk about crowing! The way that Thompson crowd rubbed it in on the Smalls was enough to make you leave the dinner table.

As for poor Eddie, when he come up to explain why he hadn't kept on bidding his wife put him out like he was a tin snip.

"Don't speak to me!" says she.
"Don't you dare speak to me!"

He didn't dare. He just run up a stomn sail and beat for harbor back of the barn. And from the piazza, Milo cackled vintagiously.

Me and Cap'n Jonadab and Peter T. felt so sorry for Eddie, knowing what he had coming to him from the duchess, that we went out to see him. He was setting on a wrecked hencoop, looking heart broke, but puzzled.

'Twas that Saltmarsh made me lose my nerve," he says. "I thought when he wouldn't bid there was something wrong with the dishes. And there was something wrong too. I believe yet he thought they were imitations. Oh, if they only were!"

And then, lo and behold you, around the corner comes Adoniram Rogers.

I'd have bet large that whatever conscience Adoniram was born with had dried up and blown away years ago.
That, no; he'd resurrected a remnant.

"Mr. Small," stammered Mr. Rogers,
"I'm sorry you feel bad about not buying them dishes. I—I thought I ought to tell you—that is to say, I— Well, if you want another set I can't let I

Reports Still Pouring Into The Drug Store

WONDERFUL BENEFITS BEING GIVEN BY THE QUAKER REMEDIES.

The reports now being made by those using the wonderful Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm are coming in so fast that it would be an almost Herculean task to prepare each one individually for publication. Therefore, the Quaker Health Teacher has had only time enough to list a few of the ones most important on account of the really remarkable nature of the benefits received. Yesterday there were eight reports of great improvement in cases of catarrh, seven in cases of rheumatism, four in cases of stomach trouble, and three in cases of minor ailments of children. This places catarrh at the head of the list, and goes to show that there is a prevalence of that disease in this city. Catarrh, as is generally supposed, is not a disease of the head only, but is an irritated condition of the mucous lining of the entire inner system. There can be catarrh of the stomach, of the kidneys, of the bladder, or of the head. No matter where it is located, it is dangerous if allowed to go without treatment. Being a blood germ disease it must be cured by a treatment intended for the blood, not by antiseptics, douches, sprays, balms, etc., which never cure, for the simple reason that they do not reach the irritated mucous lining. Fisher claims the Quaker Herb Extract to be a cure for catarrh in any form—and when he says cure he means cure—not temporary relief for a few weeks. If you suffer with this, the most loathsome of human ailments, and are disgusted at not having found any relief, don't give up but come—and when you have tried the Quaker remedy you will voice your sentiment, as others are doing every day—you will say: "Quaker Herb Extract has cured my catarrh."

HON. J. K. HENDRICK IS ON MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

Col. John K. Hendrick has been named as a member of the committee selected by the appellate court to draw suitable resolutions in respect to the memory of the late Judge R. L. D. Guffey, of Morganfield. Judge Guffey was a man with a state wide reputation, and his ability at the bar made him rank as one of the leading lawyers of the state. Those appointed members of the committee are: Judge W. H. Hazelrigg, Gen. D. W. Lindsay, T. L. Edelen, Judge George DuRelle, D. W. Fairleigh, Judge W. T. Ellis, Col. John K. Hendrick, W. A. Helm and T. B. McGregor.

The Milky Way.

"The legislators who oppose laws compelling the pasteurization of milk," said Nathan Strauss, "bring forward arguments about as weak as that of the Maine milkman. 'A lady summing in Maine said to her milkman severely: 'See here, this milk of yours is half water and half chalk. What do you mean by advertising it as pure?' 'Madam,' said the milk manufacturer with withering dignity, 'the pure all things are pure.'—Everybody's Magazine."

Today's Departures.
Dick Fowler for Cairo; George Cowling for Metropolis; Ohio for Golconda; J. B. Richardson for Clarksville; Condor for Jopka; John L. Lowry for Evansville.

Boats Due.
Clyde from Waterloo, Ala. Tuesday Lord from White river. Margaret from Cumberland.

River and Weather.
Gage at 7 o'clock this morning showed 35.3 feet here, a rise of six-tenths of a foot since yesterday or 1.2 feet since Saturday. Weather clear and cooler, and business good.

Heard on the Wharf.
With a big trip of both freight and passengers the J. B. Richardson arrived from Nashville at 6:30 o'clock this morning. She went to Brookport to unload part of her shipment of 57,999 feet of lumber for that place and Clarksville. She also had 45 hogheads of tobacco for this port, 68 passengers and a lot of miscellaneous freight. She departed at noon for Clarksville and will return here Wednesday.

Owing to the high stage at Cairo a Memphis boat en route to Paducah was delayed five hours at the Cairo bridge Sunday afternoon. Before she could pass under the top of her stacks had to be taken off. She arrived here at midnight last night.

The Clyde is due tonight or tomorrow from Waterloo, Ala. She makes a return trip to the Tennessee Wednesday.

The new steamer J. N. Trigg to ply the Paducah and Chattanooga trade, arrived today from Brookport and Jopka, where she unloaded and received freight. She departs Wednesday on her first trip. The Trigg has just been built at Decatur, Ill., and is 165 feet long with a 28 foot beam. She will be a sister to the steamer Chattanooga and leave Paducah for Chattanooga every second Wednesday in each month. Captain Ben Winters is in command, George Hamilton first clerk, Pete Weldon mate, Will Harrier chief engineer, Hollis Nichols and Boyce Berryman pilots.

The towboat Lyda departed yesterday for Florence, Ala., to bring out a tow of ties.

The Russell Lord should arrive tomorrow from White river with ties. The Margaret is also due from the Cumberland with ties tomorrow.

Capt. Mike Williams, superintendent of the marine ways, First and Washington streets, says the rise will not interfere with the work at the ways unless the flood stage, 40 feet, is reached. He does not look for much more water here.

The John W. Love, that narrowly escaped sinking during the lee season when she was carried down the Ohio in a heavy pack, will come off the local marine ways the last of this week. She has been rebuilt entirely and has a brand new hull. The Love will be taken to Henderson, where she operates in the Wabash and Ohio rivers handling corn for Nashville. She will be in excellent condition when repairs are completed.

Capt. Mike Williams spent yesterday at Cairo with rivermen.

The Nashville is due back here on Wednesday morning from Nashville.

It is believed that fishing the coming season will be better than ever owing to the fact that there has been so much snow and ice in the river.

Many duck hunters were out on the river today, and from reports they are having luck.

Business along the wharf yesterday was quiet as usual for it was Sunday. A number of gasoline boats were out with parties enjoying the warm spell.

SENATOR PLATT

DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME IN NEW YORK.

Head of Express Company and a Prominent Politician Passes Away.

New York, March 7.—A constant stream of callers today are entering the home of Frank H. Platt, bringing notes of condolence to the family of Senator Thomas Collier Platt, whose body lies in the parlor of the home.

Thomas Collier Platt, president of the United States Express company since 1888, formerly United States senator from New York and for many years a national figure in Republican politics, died in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Abel, in West Eleventh street, where he had rented three rooms for the last four years. Mrs. Abel had been his nurse.

Dr. Paul Auterbridge, the physician said the cause of the death was Bright's disease. The body was removed to the home of Frank H.

A Sale of Silk At 59c Per Yard

THIS Morning we placed on sale about twenty pieces of figured Bengaline Silk, 23 inches wide, in all the leading shades, also black and white. This silk is one of the season's newest and best creations. It has proven very desirable for dresses of evening and street wear. The corded surface, together with a neat dot or figure, adds to its beauty. We advise early shopping on this number, as it can not possibly last long at this price; per yard - - - - - 59c

Platt, his son, and will be taken tomorrow to Oswego, N. Y., where the senator was born in 1832. The funeral services will be held Wednesday at the Presbyterian church at Oswego.

The end was startlingly sudden. An hour before the senator died his two sons, Frank and Edward, with their families, and his widowed son, Harry, with the latter's daughter, Charlotte, and son, Sherman, had been at the house after the usual Sunday visit. The senator said at the time that he felt well and thought he would read the Sunday papers. At 3 o'clock he was taken with fainting and Dr. Ahterbridge was hurriedly called. The family returned in haste. Platt recovered from the first lapse but sank into unconsciousness again at 3:30 and died fifteen minutes later. The relatives were all at his bedside.

Only last Wednesday Senator Platt was at his office downtown.

For several years he had been in feeble health and lately the use of his legs had almost deserted him, but his condition until yesterday was not looked upon as more serious than usual, although physicians called on him daily.

Thursday at breakfast the senator had a momentary fainting spell, but quickly rallied. A year ago his feebleness was markedly accentuated and his life was despaired of for a period, but with remarkable vitality he recovered and went about his business as usual.
